February 25, 2010

WASHINGTON, D.C. -Congressman Charlie Melancon (D-LA) made the following statement following today's White House summit on health care:

"Louisianians are tired of the same old dig-in-your-heels partisanship that we saw from both sides at today's health care summit. We need more cooperation in Washington and less political posturing. We need leaders who will work together in good faith to solve the problems middle class families are facing. We didn't see that today."

February 25, 2010

WASHINGTON, D.C. -Congressman Charlie Melancon (D-LA) made the following statement following today's White House summit on health care:

"Louisianians are tired of the same old dig-in-your-heels partisanship that we saw from both sides at today's health care summit. We need more cooperation in Washington and less political posturing. We need leaders who will work together in good faith to solve the problems middle class families are facing. We didn't see that today."

# #